In the early hours of last Monday even-ing two individuals with a team were wandering about rather aimlessly. They evidently had been to Williamntic and were pretty well "set up." They got off the road and into the grounds. got off the road and into the grounds of G. A. Stalkers, and in leaving there one of them with the team had got started back towards Willimantic, leaving the other somewhere in the darkness. One wheel of the buggy got broken in some way, and caused a halt. Neighbors collected, and tried to get something definite out of the stranger, who said his name was a fairly good attendance There was a fairly good attendance George Washington; but as he claimed to have recently come from England, that seemed hardly pivobable. The other one finally arrived in an automobile and got the team turned around and started off towards the north again. Dan Flaherty hitched up and started after with the Englishman who left him when near Beebe's store, and disappeared in the derkness.

The annual roll call of the Second Pleasure of t

when our living room was the of some ancient relatives, whom we have to be nice to because they own a mine that may pan out well some day—and my total conversation with him consisted of 'Why, how do you do!' and 'Goodnight!' The rest of the time Uncle Benjamin was explaining to him how to set sight; bushels of pertoes from to get eighty bushels of petatoes from an acre instead of forty. Alfred is in the wholesale dry goods business, and of course, was intensely interested in the potatoes.

"He sent me a ten pound box of candy on my birthday, and I wrote him a perfectly beautiful letter, which he never answered. That was because he never got it. That monogrammed expression of thanks is probably stuck n a mail chute somewhere, or is being cept as a perfect example to be used in somebody's next compendium on 'Frow to Write Elegant Letters'

"I knew he never got it begause the next time he was in Chicago on a business trip he phonod me, and I cleared the matter up. He forgave me at once and asked me to come down for dinner and the theatre—and I had already promised Arty Manners, who is abso-lutely ridiculous as a possible life partner but very insistent on one's keeping engagements. And it was Alfred's only evening in town! And he couldn't come out for afternoon tea because he had business until 5 o'clock!"

o'clock!"

"How perfectly tragic!"

"It was! Three weeks later father took me with him on a little jaunt down east, and when I got him headed for New York I was as happy as though I had eaten the canary bird. I got father safely interested in an old college chum, and I 'phoned Alfred's office. For once in our lives we should have had a peaceful little visit over the luncheon table. I shall always hate his stenographer's voice. She said that Alfred had left the day before for a vacation up the Hudson, before for a vacation up the Hudson, and would not return in ten days! I developed a dislike for made father go home the next after-me! I tell you, the instant I met Alfred I had a sort of shock. Something told me that here was the man I had been waiting for all my life."

"I should think so!" breathed beet friend. "He gets a salary of $10,000 didn't you say?"

"I should say threat a salary of $10,000 didn't you say?"

"I hope you realize I am not mercenary enough to be influenced by anything his cousin may have told me! I could see by his expression that he was a wonderful man. And his silk socks and his tie matched perfectly little individualities! Don't you?

"But listen! Just when I had it all fixed to ride in the same auto with him his cousin called him away to carry wood, and before he got back Arty Manners had flopped down in his place—and all I could do was give him a sad smile across the blaze. Even that was spoiled because just as he caught my eve somebody dropped a plate of sandwiches on his head in passing, and nothing annoys a man like being mussed up that way. "He did call to see me before he went back to New York—and arrived when our living room was full of some ancient relatives, whom we have to be nice to because they own a mine that may pan out well some day—and my total conversation with him consisted of 'Why, how do you do!' and 'Good."
